Dear Parishioners,

1. The Check is in the Mail

In the Second Reading, Paul says that God has blessed us with every spiritual blessing and has chosen us to be holy and without blemish before him.

These are wonderful words, aren't they? I'm not sure I know the names of every spiritual blessing in the heavens, but here are some of them: love, joy, peace, patience, long-suffering. Not only are we blessed with all of these, according to Paul, but there's also being holy and without blemish!

And now could we have a reality check? Is there anyone who supposes he is without blemish? And what about holy? Even to ask the question is to risk laughter, isn't it? And then there's love, joy, peace, patience, and the rest.

What would you give for just an hour of these blessings in any day of your life.

So what does Paul mean by saying that God has blessed us with all these good things?

To see the answer, imagine that you are desperately poor, unable to pay the medical bills, worried about the mortgage, afraid the car will give out, anxious about the school costs for the children. And then you get a phone call: you have won the lottery. No, no, the caller says, it's really true! You have won millions in the lottery. The state administrators of the lottery are now doing the paperwork, and by the end of next month the check will be in the mail.

Now what? Well, you still can't pay the medical bills this month, and all the other bills are going to be a big problem, too. You are still desperately poor—this month. But you will face your poverty very differently once you know you have won the lottery, won't you? The problems are all still exactly the same, except that you know you have won the lottery. Your problems are not going to last. The check is in the mail.

This is what Paul is talking about. We are what we are now, but we have won the lottery of life. God's grace works its way slowly in our lives, but his blessings are promised and sure. And so our struggle with our sins and failures is not desperate, but hope-filled.

Hope is itself one of God's spiritual blessings to us.

Grounding the Sacred through Literature and the Arts

A conference and post-graduate seminar
Australian Catholic University
25A Barker Road, Strathfield NSW
Thursday 23 – Sunday 26 July 2015

Registration is now open for this conference, which explores the interplay between the arts and the sacred. Featuring speakers from around the world, the conference is of general, as well as academic, interest. Virtuoso recorder artist Genevieve Lacey will interweave her playing with reflections on the nature of the sacred in music. Vivien Johnson will speak to an exhibition of Indigenous art. David Malouf will be in conversation with the noted British scholar David Jasper. Sister Kathleen Deignan, recent president of the Thomas Merton Society, will speak (and respond to questions) from New York via Skype. Imam Afroz Ali will speak on Islam and the expression of the sacred and Michael McGirr will celebrate the poetry of Jesuit poet Peter Steele. Other program highlights are on the conference website, <http://www.acu.edu.au/groundingthesacred>

This conference will be remembered for years to come as an event that generated powerful insights into the ways in which the arts can help us access the sacred. Registration by 8 July is encouraged, via the website. Inquiries to Elaine.lindsay@acu.edu.au or michael.griffith@acu.edu.au

POPE'S COLUMN

Don't Let 'Common Good' Be Confused With Personal Prosperity, Pope Says in Bolivia
Not 'what is best for me' but 'what is best for everyone'

Bolivia, July 08, 2015 (ZENIT.org) Kathleen Naab

Pope Francis this evening told civil leaders in Bolivia not to confuse the common good (bien común) with mere material well being (bienestar) and to guard against becoming accustomed to seeing poverty and inequality.

He said this during an address to authorities and leaders of society gathered at the La Paz Cathedral. He arrived to the capital this afternoon for a quick few-hour stop before this evening flying on to Santa Cruz, Bolivia's most populous city.

After a courtesy visit with President Evo Morales and the exchange of multiple gifts, the Holy Father moved quickly to the cathedral for his address, first stopping to place a bouquet of flowers before an image of Our Lady.

"Each of us here shares a calling to work for the common good," he said in addressing the representatives of civil society. "Fifty years ago, the Second Vatican Council defined the common good as 'the sum of those conditions of social life which allow social groups and their individual members relatively thorough and ready access to their own fulfillment.' [...] May your efforts contribute to the growth of greater respect for the human person, endowed with basic and inalienable rights ordered to his or her integral development, and social peace, namely, the stability and security provided by a certain order which cannot be achieved without particular concern for distributive justice (cf. Laudato Si', 157)." And departing from the text, he added, "that, simply said, riches be distributed."

Continuing to reference his recent encyclical, the Pope called for an "integral ecology," saying, "The natural environment is closely related to the social, political and economic environment."

"It is so easy for us to become accustomed to the atmosphere of inequality all around us, with the result that we take it for granted. Without even being conscious of it, we confuse the 'common good' with 'prosperity,' [bienestar], especially when we are the ones who enjoy that prosperity. Prosperity understood only in terms of material wealth has a tendency to become selfish, to defend private interests, to be unconcerned about others, and to give free rein to consumerism. Understood in this way, prosperity, instead of helping, breeds conflict and social disintegration; as it becomes more prevalent, it opens the door to the evil of corruption, which brings so much discouragement and damage in its wake. The common good, on the other hand, is much more than the sum of individual interests. It moves from 'what is best for me' to 'what is best for everyone.' It embraces everything which brings a people together: common purpose, shared values, ideas which help us to look beyond our limited individual horizons."

And, the Pope added, "Freedom is always the best environment for thinkers, civic associations and the communications media to carry out their activities with passion and creativity in service of the common good."

Family

The Holy Father again emphasized the importance of the family, warning against "ideological colonization."

He noted threats to the family ranging from domestic violence and alcoholism to unemployment, the abandonment of the elderly, and children left to the streets.

"These problems often meet with pseudo-solutions which show the clear effects of an ideological colonization... So many social problems are quietly resolved in the family; the failure to assist families would leave those who are most vulnerable without protection."

Acknowledging the various challenges facing his host country, the Pope said: "Bolivia is at a historic crossroads: politics, the world of culture, the religions are all part of this beautiful challenge to grow in unity. In this land whose history has been marred by exploitation, greed and so many forms of selfishness and sectarianism, now is the time for integration." lifestyle! ' the Pope said. "This is not so straightforward: because the most effective and authentic witness is one that does not contradict, by behaviour and lifestyle, what is preached with the word and taught to others!"

Addressing the archbishops who would be receiving the Pallium-- 'a liturgical sign of communion that unites the See of Peter and his Successor to the Metropolitans, and through them to the other Bishops of the world. Pope Francis entrusted them with this call to prayer, to faith and to witness.
